EMERGENCY PROCEDURE

Announcements will be preceded by a distinctive two-toned signal. In the event of an emergency evacuation we will ask all spectators to listen very carefully to the public address announcements which will direct you to the evacuation route you should take.

An evacuation may concern one or more stands in the Stadium. If the evacuation does not affect your stand, please remain where you are unless directed otherwise.

Please respond quickly, but calmly, to the announcements and to the requests of the Stewards and Police Officers to ensure a safe evacuation of the Stadium.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The Players, Directors and Staff of Bolton Wanderers Football Club wish to make clear our abhorrence of all forms of discrimination.

Any fans who are caught abusing players or fans because of their race, gender, age, disability, religious belief or sexual orientation will face arrest and may be prosecuted.

Bolton Wanderers celebrates diversity and asks you to support your club. Should you encounter any form of this unacceptable behaviour please email the club at feedback@bwfc.co.uk

IMPORTANT SAFETY NOTICE

In order to comply with Football League safety directives, Bolton Wanderers must ensure that supporters remain seated during matches.

Supporters from both sides are therefore asked to refrain from standing for long periods of the game, it spoils it for others around you, and is a safety hazard. Everyone wants to enjoy themselves, but please understand the club's priority is to ensure the safety and well being of all spectators.

DOUGIE FREEDMAN

Looking back over recent weeks, it has been a satisfactory period for us. We have been able to record two convincing consecutive home victories over Watford and Blackburn and were then able to follow those results up with a tremendous performance away at Leeds.

The result at Elland Road was certainly our best scoreline of the season.

In our last outing we recorded a third clean sheet in four against what was a very good attacking side in Derby. They have shown this season why they are fighting for automatic promotion.

I feel that in games we are now displaying a variety of qualities. We've shown that we're capable of scoring goals from all areas of the field in the games against Blackburn and Leeds. We're seeing players in all kinds of positions contributing.

Equal to that, we're also showing real determination and resilience – qualities that were at the forefront of Tuesday's draw at Derby.

We're now able to mix it with all kinds of teams. If someone wants to play a patient passing game against us we can certainly match them, equally if a team wants to get physical with us.

Now we look forward to today's game against Brighton, who themselves gained a notable scalp on Tuesday with a victory over QPR.

We welcome Oscar Garcia, the Brighton players, staff and supporters to the Reebok Stadium this afternoon.

Hopefully we can maintain this good run of form by picking up another result today to extend our unbeaten run. Although, as everyone knows in this league, we will need to maintain the standards we have set recently or we will not be successful.

We're also hoping we can put on a spectacle that equals that of the Blackburn and Watford games, but we know Brighton will be no pushovers.

We made a couple of changes to the team at Derby following the successful performance at Leeds. The Championship is a demanding league and when there are three games in seven days the need to rotate players can be crucial.

Alan Hutton acquitted himself very professionally on his debut for the club whilst Andre Moritz and Liam Trotter both came in and made significant contributions.

Once again, I'd like to thank the fans for their terrific support at Leeds and Derby, which certainly helps make the difference when games are in the balance. As always, it is greatly appreciated.

Finally, on a sadder note, we received news that Stuart Holden had suffered a reoccurrence of his knee injury in our recent U21 game. He has been to the US for his operation and his rehab programme is once again being undertaken. We all wish him well in his recovery.

Enjoy the game.

THE SKIPPER

ZAT KNIGHT

We've managed to pick up four fantastic results in recent weeks and that is testament to us as a team and the quality we have in our ranks.

Managing to score 11 goals in four games is no mean feat, and the fact that we've managed to keep three clean sheets too in the process is very pleasing, especially from my perspective as a defender.

Obviously we aren't going to get carried away, but we're enjoying ourselves at the minute and we seem to have found that winning formula that we've been wanting all season long.

We had a fantastic result against Blackburn last time out at the Reebok, and it was one that was definitely for the fans.

We knew beforehand how important a game it is for the town and we felt like we owed the supporters a performance after the result at Ewood Park earlier in the season, so hopefully the win went some way to banishing that memory.

Following on from that, the result against Leeds last weekend was one which we felt like it had been coming and obviously it was a great feeling to get myself on the scoresheet, but if I'm honest I was actually more disappointed that we didn't manage to keep a clean sheet.

It was a good consolation goal that they did score, but I would rather have cancelled out my goal and not conceded - that's just a defender's point of view really though. It's such a rarity for me to score that I wasn't even sure what to do when I was celebrating, but I enjoyed it nonetheless!

Against Derby in midweek, it was always going to be a difficult game but the fact that we stuck together and ground out what was a hard earned point was fantastic - they're a team who are fighting for promotion and they threw everything at us but we were resilient defensively.

I think it's safe to say that up until a few months ago, we would have perhaps lost that game but given the belief and confidence in the team at the minute, we were able to grind out a very good result.

Looking back on the past few weeks though, it really is pleasing that we've come out of what was billed as a tough run of fixtures with some impressive results - all the teams that we've played have had something to fight for and we've gone out there and done exceptionally well against them.

We finally seem to have found that fear factor once again - teams aren't relishing coming up against us at the moment and that is something that we need to carry on until the end of the season.

It's a great feeling when you're around the stadium right now because the fans have got smiles on their faces - naturally we aren't exactly where we want to be in the league, but if anything the past few weeks are proof to you as supporters that we're determined to fight for the cause and send you home happy.

Our aim is to finish the campaign as strongly as possible, starting with what will be a tough game against Brighton today.

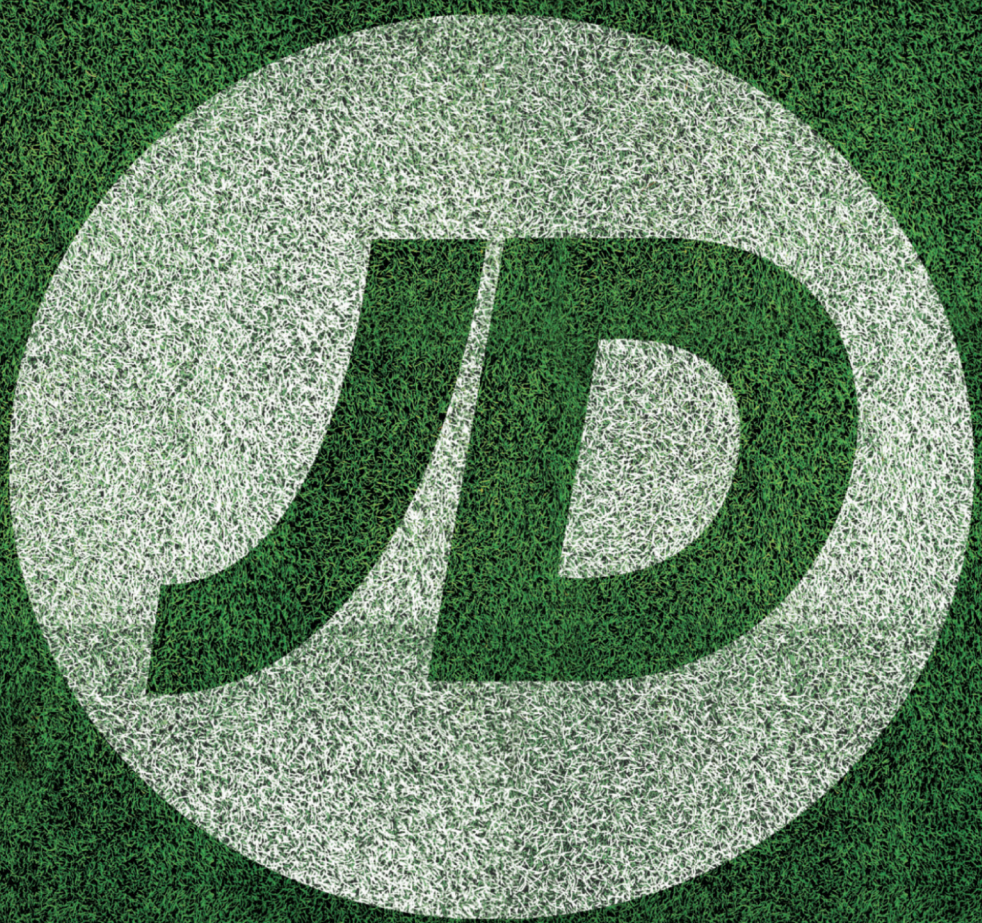

They are a very talented team who picked up a good result against QPR in midweek, but we will be taking confidence from recent games and hopefully it will be enough to secure a positive result.

We're not getting complacent - we know how unpredictable this league can be - but I have every belief that we can replicate our performances of late and pick up three points.

Enjoy the game and thanks as always for your continued support.

THE BIG INTERVIEW

JAY SPEARING

A PLAYER WHO HAS DEVELOPED A REPUTATION FOR HIS NO-NONSENSE APPROACH TO THE GAME THROUGHOUT HIS CAREER, JAY SPEARING'S RETURN TO THE CLUB ON A PERMANENT BASIS LAST SUMMER WAS ONE WHICH WAS MET WITH RESOUNDING APPROVAL FROM THE WANDERERS' FAITHFUL.

Now leading the team out on a weekly basis, the midfielder sat down with the official matchday programme to discuss everything from his former life in the heart of defence to exactly how he became known as 'The Bulldog'...

So Jay - where did it all begin?

It was my dad's influence really – he played in the West Cheshire League on the Wirral and whenever he played on a weekend I would just always go with him. He always says that he got me kicking a ball when I was only about two or three, and it just went from there really.

Luckily enough, when I was about seven and I was playing for local side and a friend of my dad's told him they were looking for youngsters at Liverpool – I went there, did enough to impress and I didn't look back after that.

Was it a case of being in the right place at the right time for you then?

Definitely. It just so happened at the time that they were looking for lads over the water, and they were told about me and another lad called Craig Lindfield who now plays for Chester, but we were in the same team at the time.

They sent both of us to Liverpool for a six week trial, but the pair of us got signed after three weeks.

I carried on playing for both my local team and them, but when I turned eight they wanted me to focus all my energies into Liverpool so I played solely for them.

It must have been a dream come true to sign for your hometown team?

Definitely. I was a massive Liverpool fan and I still am. It wasn't just a dream move for myself, but also for my family - we're a bit of red and blue, but mostly red!

When you're a young kid and you first sign for a club, it doesn't really sink in what you're doing because you just enjoy playing football, but once you get older it starts to kick in and becomes a dream.

It was just amazing to pull on a Liverpool shirt every day and represent the club from such a young age.

Was there any player in particular that you looked up to during your early days at Liverpool?

There were a few, but when I was younger I was actually a defender – I played at centre half until I was 18! As I got older though, with my height they said that I'd probably be best to drop forward into midfield.

Despite that though, as a young local kid coming up through the ranks I was always in awe of players like Michael Owen and Steven Gerrard because they were exactly where I wanted to be – they were living proof of that fact that it was possible to progress through the academy and achieve your dream.

From the moment I went up to Melwood to train with the first team they were all brilliant with me – they gave me the belief that I could make it and thankfully I did.

Liverpool have certainly got a reputation for producing notable local talent!

They have - a lot of us in the academy were local lads and we'd progressed up through the academy together, then into the reserve team before a couple of us eventually made it into the first team, so we had a little group of us who stuck together and have all gone on to do relatively well in the game.

I was actually given my scholarship a year early when I was just 15 so I knew even before I'd left school that I was going onto a YTS scheme, but my parents wanted me to get my GCSEs just in case it didn't work out for me.

Once I'd finished school, I did quite well in the academy aside from breaking my leg in the first game of the season which knocked me back nearly a year, but I managed to get myself back and fit for the first year we won the FA Youth Cup.

After that year, a group of six lads went up to the first team but I stayed behind which was disappointing, but I always believed in myself and my ability and I knew that one day, I would be doing the same and luckily it happened for me.

Speaking of the FA Youth Cup, you tasted further success in the competition as a captain too...

I did which was an amazing feeling – that was one season where I played centre-half all year and even came up against Andy Carroll when he was in the youth team up at Newcastle.

We had a lot of good players in that youth side, but we didn't have too many central defenders so they asked me to do a job for the team which I had no problem doing whatsoever and luckily enough, we went on to win it.

How have the careers of your teammates in that squad panned out since?

They've all done relatively well for themselves – we had Martin Kelly on the bench that year who now plays for Liverpool, Stephen Darby who's now at Bradford, Jimmy Ryan who plays for Chesterfield, Ryan Flynn at Sheffield United and of course Craig Lindfield at Chester.

Everybody from that year more or less is playing football, even if it's in the Welsh League so it was definitely a successful year of ours that came through.

It was the same squad that went on to win the reserve league the year after too which was a great achievement, but we owed a lot to Gary Ablett who was a tremendous coach – all the lads loved him and thought that training and his approach to everything was superb.

Following on from your early success, you eventually went on to make your professional debut in the Champions League of all competitions...

I did, away at PSV Eindhoven. It was a bit of a daunting experience for my first proper match, but it was amazing and I loved every second of it.

We were 2-1 up at the time and I came on for Albert Riera, but then David Ngog went and scored our third shortly after he put the result beyond doubt.

It was a bit surreal – when you're a youngster and you go on trips like that, you just expect to be a 19th man and to just go for the experience, but when Rafael Benítez said that me, Martin Kelly and Stephen Darby were definitely going to get some game time we were over the moon.

Undoubtedly a proud moment for you and your family?

Very much so, but then I went on to make my home debut against Real Madrid and we won 4-0. All my family were in the crowd – it's something I'll never forget and I've still got the shirts to keep as memories.

It was an incredible feeling, one that I'd dreamt of as a kid, but to actually come on for Steven Gerrard in a game as unbelievable and that is something that will stick with me forever.

I put in a tackle against Lassana Diarra and all the crowd started chanting my name – my dad actually said that he shed a tear when he heard them doing that.

To hear the Kop singing my name was just surreal – I was probably listening to it a little bit too much, but it was just something I wanted to savour.

Seemingly the perfect start to life as a professional, but your time at Liverpool wasn't exactly plain sailing, was it?

I just couldn't seem to nail down a regular starting place which was disappointing – I was in and out for a couple of years before Roy Hodgson came in and he gave me quite a lot of games in the Europa League.

Even though it wasn't quite happening for me there, I felt that whatever opportunities I was getting were helping me to develop as a player and a person.

I ended up playing a lot of cup football, but then I really got myself into the squad when Kenny Dalglish came to the club and I ended up playing 30 league games in one season. I owe him a lot because he really gave me a good go and I took every chance that I had to prove myself.

Spearing in action against Real Madrid on his Anfield debut

You also spent a short spell on loan with Leicester – how did that come about?

That was purely to help me get games – I was in and out of the team under Rafa, so I went to Leicester and had a great time.

I spent two and a half months with them and that was a really good experience for me, plus we were really unlucky not to get to the Play-Off Final when we lost out against Cardiff on penalties in the semi-final.

I even managed to score my first professional goal during my time there in a 4-1 win over Watford which I was buzzing about, but the main thing it did was help me grow up because I had to move out of home and learn to look after myself.

Having spent my entire life living just over the water from Liverpool, it was hard to get used to living away but it made me develop personally and I really enjoyed it.

You then joined Wanderers initially on loan at the start of the 2012/13 season. Was it a simple decision to come here?

Definitely – there was interest from a few other clubs, but once I'd spoken to Owen Coyle my mind was made up. He was on the phone to me every day, telling me how much he wanted me to join and how important he thought I could be for the club.

My daughter had just been born too, so it was massively important for me that I was around to see her grow up, so being just down the road made it perfect for me.

I'd also seen the players that had come to Bolton and done really well and progressed in their careers, so it was a no brainer to sign for the club and I loved every minute of it.

You went on to play over 40 games for the club last season and even managed to get your name on the scoresheet a couple of times...

It was a great year for me personally as I felt like I really settled and obviously so get a few goals was just a bonus. Scoring is something that I've always wanted to add to my game and I would love to find the back of the net more often, but at the end of the day as long as I'm doing my best for the team then I'm happy.

You quickly became a fan favourite amongst the Reebok faithful and even picked up the nickname of 'The Bulldog'...

I've actually had that nickname for a good few years – it was Kenny Dalglish who gave it to me and it's just stuck. It is just the way that I play though – from being really young, my family have drilled it into me to take every game as if it's your last.

You were forced to sit out the final weeks of the season with a broken toe – was it difficult to not be able to get involved after playing so many games?

It was massively hard – after the season that we'd had and the run we'd been on, to get that injury was devastating and to be so close to the play-offs as well was heartbreaking.

That is football for you though, and this year we're very disappointed that we haven't been able to replicate what we did last year.

We can't dwell on that though – we've just got to keep ourselves going, keep together and pick up as many points as we can towards the end of the season.

How easy a decision was it to sign permanently for the club last summer?

It was so simple – I didn't even have to think about it. I'd had such a fantastic time here last year and everybody at the club had been so welcoming from the players to the management and the kitchen staff, so when Dougie said that he wanted me to come back it was an easy decision.

I even picked up the Player of the Year award which was a massive privilege and I can't thank the fans enough for it – it made me feel like my efforts had been appreciated and it was a great honour.

Obviously it was difficult to make the choice to leave my hometown club, but from a football point of view it was time to move on and I wanted to go and play, so Bolton provided me with the perfect platform to do that.

You've certainly picked up where you left off last season and have even taken the captain's armband during the current campaign – how did that feel?

It's a massive honour – I didn't expect it whatsoever, but for the manager to have that kind of belief in me is fantastic and I will wear it with pride every single week.

I haven't got the experience that some players have got, but if I can help the boys in any way that I can do then I will happily do so.

Just because I have the captain's armband, it doesn't mean that there aren't ten other captains on the field. As a team, we don't necessarily see anybody as a captain – we just want to work for each other and stick together.

It's not about individuals – I think that everybody could see that after the Blackburn game how united we are as a team. We know that things haven't been going our way at points this season, but we're in it together and we'll give our all for the football club.

You even managed to find the back of the net in the victory over Blackburn – where does that goal rank?

It's definitely up there! For me it's so rare, but when it came to me I just thought that I'd hit it and try my luck and I knew as soon as I'd struck it that it was a good shot!

It did take a while to be given, but I was thrilled when it was awarded and it's probably the best goal I've ever scored, even if it didn't actually hit the back of the net! It went over the line though, so I'll definitely take that.

At the end of the day though, it's all about the team and what we produce as a unit – the last four results have been something that have been a long time coming, so fingers crossed we can continue that against Brighton today and in our remaining fixtures.

Dougie Freedman on bwfc.co.uk

"It was a result for the fans, there is no doubt about that. The fans have stuck by us through some difficult moments. They really understand where we are and they get behind us – that is what has got us through this difficult season."

Jay Spearing on bwfc.co.uk

"We're delighted with the result. From the first minute we showed exactly how we wanted to go about the game and it paid off for us. I thought we fully deserved the win."

Gary Bowyer on rovers.co.uk

"We can't perform like we did against Reading and then a week later come here in a local derby and perform like that. We demanded passion off them and I don't think we got enough off the players on that."

THE BIG PICTURE

David Ngog celebrates notching a last gasp equaliser in a 1-1 draw at the Amex Stadium back in November 2012.

A game which saw the hosts hit the woodwork on three occasions and Ashley Barnes denied by Adam Bogdan from the penalty spot, the Frenchman struck for the visitors in the 96th minute to cancel out Bruno's earlier opener and send the travelling supporters into raptures.

MIDDLESBROUGH 0-3 WANDERERS

Wanderers' under-18 side recorded their second successive league win on their travels with a comfortable 3-0 victory over their Middlesbrough counterparts on Tuesday afternoon.

Following on from Saturday's 3-2 win over Wolverhampton Wanderers, David Lee and Tony Kelly's side made the trip to the north of England hopeful of avenging a 5-0 reverse inflicted on them by the Riverside youngsters back in October.

From the outset it was clear that the Whites were a team on a mission with a number of opportunities going begging and it wasn't long before their dominance paid dividends with 25 minutes on the clock as Jamie Thomas fired home from a 25-yard free-kick.

No more than Wanderers deserved, the visitors pushed to extend their lead as the half drew to its conclusion and were rewarded just five minutes before the break as following good link-up play between Christopher Cvetko and Carl Kennedy, William Abbotts added to his brace against Wolves at the weekend with a well taken volley.

Well and truly in control of the clash, Bolton proceeded to put the result beyond doubt on the stroke of half time as Kennedy again in the thick of the action dissected the Boro defence with a perfectly executed pass into the feet of Cvetko who struck the ball first time to power home from 15 yards out and make it three for the Whites.

Wanderers did enjoy chances to extend their handsome lead following the restart, but the result remained the same at the final whistle.

Speaking after the final whistle, coach Lee praised his young side for their application and professionalism throughout the duration of the clash.

"We totally dominated the game from start to finish which was very pleasing to see," he said.

"We had two under-16 players in the starting line-up combined with four second and five first years, so to produce such a comprehensive performance is a credit to them.

"Their work rate and attitude, combined with some fantastic phases of play, was very pleasing and the players deserve all the plaudits that they get."

The club's youngsters were in action against their Liverpool counterparts at Lostock on Saturday morning with a full report available on www.bwfc.co.uk following the conclusion of the clash.

Bolton: Jaaskelainen, Greenaugh, Garratt, Ball, Honeyball, Kennedy, Newby, Burke, Abbotts (Torres, 60), Thomas

READING 4-1 WANDERERS

Wanderers' under-21 side suffered a 4-1 defeat away at Reading on Monday evening.

The hosts had taken an early lead from the penalty spot through De'Jaune Taylor-Crossdale, but Luke Woodland drew the Whites level on the stroke of half time.

His effort was to be in vain however as Taylor-Crossdale doubled his tally before goals from Shepperd Murombedzi and Jake Cooper wrapped up all three points for the Berkshire outfit.

On a clear night in Basingstoke, the Whites started the better of the two sides as Zach Clough was fouled on the edge of the box by Cooper, with the following free kick resulting in an Oscar Threlkeld diving header that went narrowly wide.

During the opening quarter of the game the visitors were well and truly in control, with Andy Kellett advancing and whipping a ball across the face of keeper Stuart Moore's box that no one was able to meet.

The pressure did result in an opening goal, but against the run of play it fell in the Royals' favour as Kellett brought down Taylor-Crossdale in the area in the 18th minute, with the frontman taking it upon himself to convert the spot kick past Bolton keeper Harry Campbell.

Following the goal, the visitors found themselves on the back foot with Reading undoubtedly in the ascendancy as first Taylor-Crossdale and then Bogdan Vastsuk enjoyed long range efforts.

Midfielder Yannick Bastos was the next Bolton player to have an attempt following the hosts' pressure, but his right footed inside shot found Moore's hands comfortably.

With half an hour gone, some impressive footwork on the corner of the box from Clough allowed the striker to get away a shot which bounced in front of Moore but also past the post.

Kellett then went on a mazy run, skipping past two men before playing the ball into the feet of Woodland but the resulting shot was blocked at close range.

With the game becoming lively and open, Wanderers did pull level on the stroke of half time as Woodland released an unstoppable effort from 30 yards out which flew straight into the corner of the Reading net to ensure that the visitors went into the break high on confidence.

Moments after the restart and the visiting bench were left perplexed after Kellett was brought down inside the box, but the referee remained unmoved.

Following a bright start from Wanderers, a well worked set piece initially taken by Woodland saw Iliev narrowly miss out on Clough's pull back at the far post.

With the Whites sensing blood, Tom Walker was introduced into the fold for Bastos to provide more firepower upfront.

As the half wore on, Bolton were controlling the pace of the game and Iliev was unlucky to blast over from six yards out upon leaning back on the damp playing surface with the inside of his boot.

Clough was creative throughout and his through ball on the hour found substitute Walker who with his pace got on the end of the neat pass, but his momentum had the ball bounce off his shin and into Moore's hands.

Having withstood pressure from the visitors, Reading's Taylor-Crossdale had a crisp dipping shot from 30 yards but Campbell used both hands to push the ball over the bar.

After denying him once however, the Bolton goalkeeper was beaten just moments later when Taylor-Crossdale again unleashed a ferocious mirror effort which left Campbell stranded and had the home side in front.

The goal sparked a difficult spell for the Whites' youngsters, with Murombedzi firing home from a similar position as Taylor-Crossdale did for the Royals' second before Cooper lost his man and beat Campbell at his near post with a well taken half volley to make it four with ten minutes remaining.

Conor Wilkinson was introduced inside the closing stages and almost added to Bolton's tally late on as he jumped to meet Chris Lester's cross, but his header failed to test Moore as Reading ran out winners on the night.

Dougie Freedman on bwfc.co.uk

"It was a fantastic professional performance. I felt we were calm in possession and controlled the midfield, but when we had to defend we did that really well too."

Zat Knight on bwfc.co.uk

"It was great to score and secure such a fantastic result, but we were disappointed that we couldn't hold out for the clean sheet too. It's a massive confidence boost for us all though."

Brian McDermott on leedsunited.com

"We have a squad of players here that are desperate to do well, there is no doubt about that. You could see that there were nerves around the team for whatever reason. We haven't played at Elland Road for a while and we're really upset with the way the game went."

Brighton & Hove Albion make only their second ever visit to the Reebok Stadium this afternoon and it is a journey that manager Oscar Garcia hopes will prove fruitful as Albion continue to push for a play-off berth during the final months of the domestic campaign.

The fixture list has fallen in a way by which the West Sussex side have had blocks of matches at the Amex Stadium or on the road, and it is in front of their own supporters where they have proved a force to be reckoned with this term.

Many games have been close and tight affairs, but some of the league's big hitters have fallen on Albion's sword with automatic promotion chasers Leicester City and Burnley victims of the Seagulls at some point during the course of the campaign.

Wanderers themselves have also taken comfort from being in front of their home fans in recent times with maximum points against Watford and neighbours Blackburn Rovers, with the impressive 4-0 victory over the Ewood Park outfit a fortnight ago being their biggest win of the season so far and their best against Rovers in over 80 years.

A fixture which has been a rarity in recent years, here are some things which you may or may not know about today's opponents.

B is for Brighton & Hove Albion Museum

Not to be confused with the museum located in the city centre, the football club opened its own museum in the North Stand of the Amex Stadium in December 2013.

Former England player and Albion manager Alan Mullery unveiled the project which has items of memorabilia from down the years, including the club's 1983 FA Cup Final against Manchester United.

R is for Reid

Peter Reid opened the scoring for Bolton when they made the visit to Brighton in October 1977.

Roy Greaves added a second from the penalty spot to secure a 2-1 win, but this remains Wanderers only success in the resort.

Alternately, Brighton have two wins to their name at Bolton with Kurt Nogan scoring the only goal in a victory at Burnden Park in January 1993.

I is for Inigo Calderon

The full back and vice-captain of Brighton is one of five Spaniards currently operating in the first team squad.

The others include David Rodriguez, Andrea Orlandi, David Lopez and Bruno Saltor, with Bruno finding himself on the score sheet against Bolton last season when powering home a thunderous volley past Adam Bogdan.

G is for the Goldstone Ground

Brighton played at this venue for 95 years until the end of the 1996-1997 season.

The last match to be held here resulted in a 1-0 victory against Doncaster Rovers, with former Bolton winger Stuart Storer scoring the only goal of the game to ensure that the south-coast outfit marked their final game in their historic stadium fittingly.

H is for Hart

Utility player Gary Hart played at Brighton for thirteen years between 1998 and 2011.

Initially a striker, he served under nine managers and made 417 appearances, scoring 46 goals spread across three divisions. He also appeared in defence and midfield during his long stay and was awarded a testimonial against Charlton Athletic in 2008.

T is for Tug Wilson

Tug Wilson holds the record number of appearances in a Brighton shirt having featured in 566 games for the club between 1922 and 1936.

Tug, real name Ernie, was initially rejected by Sheffield Wednesday due to his height, but proved a sterling servant during his time on the South coast.

O is for Own Goals

When these two teams last met back in September, three goals in ten minutes helped to ensure that the fixture went Brighton's way as they ran out 3-1 winners.

It wasn't a happy afternoon for Bolton skipper Jay Sparring or Albion's David Lopez however as both managed to divert the ball past their own goalkeeper.

N is for Napier

Northern Irish centre half John Napier came through the Bolton ranks in the mid-1960s in a defensive unit that included Wanderers' stalwarts Warwick Rimmer and Dave Hatton.

Whilst at Burnden Park, Napier received his only international cap against West Germany before moving south to Brighton where he made over 200 appearances and collected the Player of the Year award.

TIM REAM

AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL HAILS WANDERERS' IMPRESSIVE DEFENSIVE DISPLAYS

Tim Ream believes Bolton Wanderers' recent defensive showings have given the whole squad a lift heading into the final months of the season.

A 0-0 draw against promotion-chasing Derby County on Tuesday evening saw the Trotters extend their recent unbeaten run to five matches.

And while the game may have been short of goals, Ream revealed the Whites were happy to secure another clean sheet and claim an equal share of the points against one of the Championship's leading sides.

"It was different to the last three wins that we've had, but you expect that when you come on the road and play a team like Derby," Ream said following the final whistle.

"It was never going to be a pretty game and I think most of the guys are pretty happy with a clean sheet and walking away with a point.

"Keeping clean sheets is something we have struggled with all year long, so to have kept three in our last four matches is just brilliant.

"It gives the entire team a boost and a lift and it gives them assurance that they can go forward and get goals and that we'll shut the door at the back."

Having seen the Rams taste defeat in their last two matches, the Bolton backline needed to be at their very best to prevent a Derby response.

Fully aware of the stern test that Steve McClaren's side would provide, the American was pleased to see the Bolton defence pass with flying colours.

"Derby were always going to put a little extra into it, especially after coming off after Saturday against Millwall and getting hit in the gut at the end of the match," Ream said.

"They came out flying and it was just a matter of weathering the storm in the first half, and then getting a bit more from us in the second half.

"Unfortunately we still did not break through, but we will take a clean sheet and point on the road any day."

Having lined up at left back in recent weeks, Ream was restored to the centre against Derby County.

And while he admitted the change in role had kept him on his toes, the 26-year-old was happy with his overall performance, revealing he is happy to play wherever Dougie Freedman needs him.

"It was strange moving back into the middle after playing at left back for so long, but it is one of those where I am happy to be playing wherever it may be.

"It was a little bit of an adjustment for me in the first 10-15 minutes and the manager knows that, but I settled in and did a fairly decent job manning the back."

A further change to the backline saw Alan Hutton make his Whites debut after joining Bolton on loan from Aston Villa late last month.

With the Scot eager to prove himself after finding his game-time limited at Villa Park, Ream was impressed with Hutton's contribution against Derby and believes that there is more to come from the full back.

Ream concluded: "I think Alan did great. It is a tough position to come in after the three wins that we've had."

"To come in and step in that the way that he did, to defend and just break things up is exactly what you want to see.

"He's definitely part of the group now. He's done a brilliant job so far and hopefully he can continue that."

SO FAR THIS SEASON...

After losing out in the play-off semi-finals last season, Brighton & Hove Albion are determined to finish in the Championship top six once again this term as they attempt to make up for last year's heartache.

Although the Seagulls have experienced spells of inconsistency at times, Oscar Garcia's side are still firmly on track to challenge for promotion as the season nears its conclusion.

With just two points separating them from sixth-placed Reading at the time of writing, Brighton know that every point now counts more than ever.

Coming into today's tie off the back of successive home clashes with promotion rivals Reading and Queens Park Rangers, a victory for the Seagulls today could prove decisive come the end of the season.

Currently boasting the division's best defence on their travels, Brighton will be confident of securing a positive result at the Reebok Stadium today, with Garcia having put together a side that have conceded just 28 goals in all this term.

It is at the other end of the field that the Seagulls have found things a little harder, with only basement club Barnsley and fellow relegation strugglers Doncaster Rovers having scored less away from home.

With 12 goals so far this season, and six in his last eight games, Brighton can name one of the Championship's more prolific finishers amongst their ranks in the form of Leonardo Ulloa. However, the Argentine has scored almost twice as many as any other Seagulls player this campaign.

Eager to boost his side's attacking prowess, Garcia brought in Charlton midfielder Dale Stephens, Tottenham Hotspur loanee Jonathan Obikia and former Celta Vigo striker David Rodriguez back in January.

Jesse Lingard also joined on loan from Premier League champions Manchester United late last month, having initially risen to prominence by netting four goals on his debut for Birmingham City during a previous loan move earlier this season.

The absence of injured striker Craig Mackail-Smith for the entire campaign so far has proven to be an almighty blow, but, with the Scot nearing a return, Brighton could be set for a strong finish.

Their recent FA Cup replay exit at the hands of top flight outfit Hull City showed they are capable of lining up against some of the more formidable sides in the country.

And with, from the sides above them, only runaway league leaders Leicester City and repeated play-off nearly-men Nottingham Forest left to play, Brighton's destiny is firmly in their own hands.

After establishing himself as one of the most feared marksmen in the Spanish second tier, Leonardo Ulloa is quickly earning a similar reputation in England, averaging just under a goal every other game since first joining Brighton in January 2013.

The forward started his career in his native Argentina with second division side Comisión de Actividades Infantiles in 2002, before moving to top flight club San Lorenzo in 2005.

During his two years with San Lorenzo, Ulloa was part of the side that won the Argentine national championship in 2007. However, he left the club soon afterwards to join Arsenal de Sarandí.

At Arsenal he won the Copa Sudamericana (the South American equivalent of the Europa League), but his time with the club was brief as he went on to join Club Olimpo in 2008.

Following another short stint, Ulloa was soon on the move again as he left Argentina to join Spanish second division side CD Castellón at the start of the 2008/09 season.

Ulloa's first season in Spain was a success as he finished the year as Castellón's leading goalscorer with 16 goals. He followed that up with 14 the following year, but it was not enough to prevent the club suffering relegation to the third tier of Spanish football.

However, Ulloa's goalscoring exploits did not go unnoticed as he was soon snapped up by La Liga side UD Almería in June 2010.

A goal on his home debut immediately endeared Ulloa to supporters in what was a miserable season for the club, as Ulloa tasted relegation for the second season running.

Despite his side's troubles, the forward managed to score a respectable seven goals in his first season of top flight football, before really making a name for himself the following campaign.

During the 2011/12 season Ulloa's total of 28 goals saw him crowned as the division's leading goalscorer, but despite his exploits Almería were unable to regain their top-flight status.

However, after finding his game time limited the following season, Ulloa left for Brighton & Hove Albion in January 2013.

Ulloa marked his debut for the Seagulls with a goal against Premier League giants Arsenal, and would go on to score his first hat-trick in English football a month later against Huddersfield Town.

The forward finished the season with ten goals as Brighton as they reached the Championship play-off semi-finals, only to lose to eventual winners Crystal Palace.

Currently Brighton's leading goalscorer this season, Ulloa has scored 12 goals in 25 appearances as the Seagulls once again challenge for a top six berth.

THE BOSS

One of the early graduates from Barcelona's now famous La Masia youth academy, Brighton manager Oscar Garcia is no stranger to success at the highest level, having won numerous trophies with the Calatans during the nineties.

Now looking to replicate his silverware-laden playing days as a manager, Garcia is hopeful of leading Albion into the Premier League for the first time in the club's history in what is only his maiden year in England.

Born in Sabadell, an 11-year-old Garcia first joined local side Barcelona in 1984. Initially a star of the 'B' team, he was handed a first team debut during the 1992/93 season.

After spending the 1994/95 campaign on loan at Albacete, Garcia established himself as a first-team regular on his return to the Nou Camp.

He would finish the 1995/96 season as Barcelona's leading goalscorer with ten goals, despite starting just 11 of his 28 appearances, with his fine form seeing him called up to the Spain squad for the 1996 Atlanta Summer Olympics.

The following season under Sir Bobby Robson, Garcia found his game-time limited, but this did not prevent him from adding UEFA Cup Winners' Cup and Copa Del Rey winners' medals to his ever-growing collection.

Back-to-back La Liga medals followed, while Garcia also came off the bench to score in his side's penalty shoot-out win over Real Mallorca as Barcelona defended their Copa Del Rey crown in 1998.

With his role at the Nou Camp diminishing, Garcia joined Valencia ahead of the 1999/00 season and was an unused sub in their Champions League Final defeat against Real Madrid.

Garcia left to join Espanyol in 2000 and, despite a failed move to West Ham United in the early-noughties, would go on to spend four seasons with the club.

Having finished his career with UE Lleida at the end of the 2004/05 season, Garcia turned his hand to coaching in late 2009, linking up with his former Barcelona manager Johan Cruyff as part of the Dutchman's coaching set-up for the Catalonia national team.

In May 2012, Garcia was handed his first head coach role as he signed a two-year contract with Israeli team Maccabi Tel Aviv.

Despite leading the club to the national championship in his first season in charge, ending Tel Aviv's ten-year wait for the title in the process, Garcia resigned from his post at the end of the campaign.

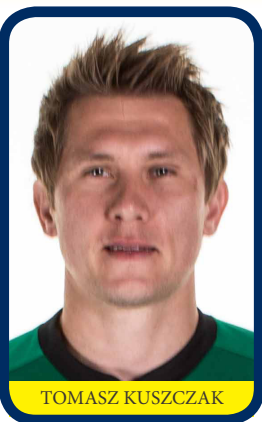

Named as Gus Poyet's replacement at Brighton & Hove Albion at the start of the season, Garcia's side currently sit just two points outside the play-off places and are well on track to challenge for promotion during the final months of the season.

Bolton Wanderers and Brighton & Hove Albion have faced each other fifteen times down the years and have an equal record, winning five games apiece.

Today marks an opportunity for Wanderers to take the lead in the head to head between the two sides, as they did last season at the Reebok.

The corresponding fixture last March was amid an impressive run from the Whites, with Dougie Freedman's side on a four match winning streak heading into the game and a place in the top six firmly in their sights.

The game started with the visitors in the ascendancy, so it was against the run of play when Spanish defender Marcos Alonso fired the Whites into the lead in the 20th minute.

Polish goalkeeper Tomasz Kuszczak was left astounded as Alonso headed towards the corner with seemingly very little danger of the full-back troubling him, but he released an unstoppable effort to put Wanderers a goal up.

The strike was the Spaniard's third goal of the season and he almost added a fourth minutes later as the defender, who is currently at Sunderland on loan from Fiorentina, stooped to head Jay Spearing's inswinging corner but he was unable to get his effort on target.

The Whites were to take a one goal advantage into the break and it was the side from the North West who emerged with more panache in the second half, with David Ngog's ambitious volley from 20 yards almost doubling Bolton's advantage.

Wanderers' missed opportunity however appeared to breathe life into Albion's rescue mission, with Zat Knight then forced to make a crucial intervention at the other end to prevent what seemed a certain goal.

As the game wore on, both sides were enjoying chances to find the back of the net with Alonso once again proving integral to Wanderers' attacking threat as he provided the pass to set Ngog in on goal.

Unfortunately for the Frenchman however, his well taken shot was well saved by Kuszczak while Chung-Yong Lee was also unable to double the home side's advantage minutes later as he saw his shot blocked by Matthew Upson.

It was the away team that stepped up the tempo in the final minutes of the game as they desperately searched for an equaliser that could see them remain in the play-off positions with Upson, Orlandi and Vicente all unleashing efforts on goal but only the latter could get his shot on target with Andrew Lonergan completing a routine save.

Ultimately all Albion had to show for their efforts in the closing minutes was a red card for Ashley Barnes, with the striker's dismissal signalling the end of Brighton's fight and ensuring that the Whites saw out the game to secure the win.

ISS YOUNGSTERS SET FOR SEASIDE

The club's International youngsters are set to compete in the highly esteemed Blackpool Cup tournament next month.

Having been held on an annual basis since 1994, the Blackpool Cup features teams from around the United Kingdom and the continent who travel to the seaside resort to participate in what has become an international competition.

This will be the first time which the club have entered a team from the IFSP squad, with the squad set to travel down to the tournament's Myerscough Campus on Friday 18 April – a venue which boasts a number of high quality grass and artificial pitches alongside classrooms for pre-match tactics, a gym and a golf course.

The group stages of the competition will take place on the Saturday and Sunday, with the squad set to face teams such as FC Marly of Switzerland, SV Jestetten of Germany and V.V. ZIGO from the Netherlands.

Should the team progress, the semi-finals and final itself will be held on the Monday morning with the winners crowned later that day.

Speaking ahead of the tournament, ISS co-ordinator David Bailey explained his delight at the squad's inclusion in the competition.

"The opportunity to play against different nationalities, cultures and styles will be invaluable experience for the squad," he said. "Playing in tournament football is always exciting and is a great opportunity to showcase the boys' talents.

"We are looking forward to competing for the first time in the tournament and I'm sure it will be an enjoyable experience for the lads."

KICK IT OUT 'SEASON OF ACTION'

Today's game is dedicated to Kick It Out, football's equality and inclusion campaign and its current 'Season of Action' which celebrates 20 years of the scheme itself.

1993 was a mixed year for English football. The national team failed to qualify for the following year's World Cup competition in the USA, while the game was saddened to lose World Cup winning captain Sir Bobby Moore, plus the Premier League's inaugural season ended in May and the game was slowly modernising.

Amidst all of this, a new initiative, soon to become known as Kick It Out, was launched with the aim of kicking racism out of football, challenging racially motivated abuse and behaviour on the pitch and the terraces and within the game's administration, which seemed oblivious to the abuse and prejudice prevalent in all aspects of the game.

The year of 2013 marked two decades of campaigning and today's fixture is dedicated to the 'Season of Action' initiative to commemorate such a milestone. The campaign has so far seen the launch of a free downloadable app to help fans report abuse, and features a number of events looking at the origins of the movement and projecting the next phase of activities to rid football of racism, homophobia and all forms of discrimination.

Back in 1993, many were sceptical about the campaign, with few expecting it to be around today. The vile chanting that characterised football matches back then forced people not to attend, with violence and racial harassment also commonplace.

"We've altered that landscape, working in tandem with the steps taken by the governing bodies, the leagues, clubs, players, managers and supporters," said Kick It Out Chair Lord Herman Ouseley. "Our essential tasks were to educate, raise awareness and campaign on changes that needed to be made.

"Legislation has been brought in to help deal with the harassment and criminality associated with the game. Nowadays, football is a much more enjoyable experience, whether watching or playing, but there is still work to do be done and we need the next generation of players, fans and everyone associated with the game to lead this."

As the campaign looks forward to the next 20 years, its commitment to partnership work is as strong as ever. Kick It Out works with all involved in football for the benefit of the sport with its enabling and facilitating roles mean that it remains a resource for change within the game.

CHAPLAIN'S VIEW

BEYOND THE 90

The George Warburton Outstanding Service Award

Before today's game, the fourth George Warburton Outstanding Service Award will be awarded in the reception area of the club where the Awards Board is dedicated to the memory of George Warburton himself.

This annual award is in appreciation of those who have given remarkable service and dedication to Bolton Wanderers Football Club.

In the first year, the inaugural awards were given to Nat Lofthouse OBE (posthumously), and Eddie Davies CBE who are both clearly worthy of special recognition for all they have contributed to Bolton Wanderers.

Last year, the name of Joe McGlynn was added as someone who has given remarkable service to Bolton Wanderers in the facilities department for over 45 years, having begun his time here on the August 1, 1968.

This year the award is going to Ruth Crawshaw, an incredibly dedicated supporter who hails from Brightmet who has not missed a home game since 1959 and has followed the Wanderers for over 57 years.

Ruth goes to every first team, development squad and youth game and has followed the team across the globe, and has even joked herself that she could have been to the moon and back on numerous occasions with all the travelling she has done over the years.

She can be seen on the concourse every home game in all weathers selling matchday programmes and is even committed to selling the programmes for all the development squad games and youth matches.

Ruth has said that she is honoured and humbled to receive the award and to have her name placed alongside the likes of Nat Lofthouse and Eddie Davies.

Brett Warburton paid tribute to her by saying, "It is great to have Ruth as a recipient of this award in memory of my dad. He was always passionate about everyone involved in the whole life of the club.

"I think it is wonderful to see the names of four very different people, all of whom have made a massive contribution to the life of our club in very different ways but who make up the family that is Bolton Wanderers."

Enjoy the game.

SPECIAL OCCASION TREATS

With just five home games remaining this season, now is the time to book your Special Occasion Treat.

We have five packages available for you to choose from priced to suit all budgets and all our remaining fixtures have availability.

Treats are a perfect way to celebrate a birthday, anniversary or just a great way to say thanks.

Starting at just £45, the Original Treat is for two people with the recipient receiving a complimentary match day programme which will include a personal message for them.

They will be escorted to pitch side for their photo with club mascot Lofty the Lion and they will then have their photo taken with their chosen player, with photos from the day being sent to the recipient direct through the post which they can keep as a lasting memory of the day.

If you wish to add in a signed piece of memorabilia to enhance the treat the costs are slightly different.

A signed football package is £65, a signed photo package is £75 and finally the signed shirt package is £135. We also have a family package for five people which includes a signed football which costs £85.

For full details or to book any of the packages, please contact us on 01204 673774.

BLACKPOOL

Flyde coasts Blackpool head to the Reebok Stadium on Tuesday 25 March looking to pull themselves out of the lower echelons of the Championship with only ten games to go.

The Tangerines currently sit in 18th position, with Tuesday's victory over fellow strugglers Millwall being their first win in 19 attempts.

Former manager Paul Ince was relieved of his duties midway through January after a string of poor results, with the team having last tasted victory on November 30 prior to their midweek win over the Lions.

Given the club's drop in form, chairman Karl Oyston made the decision to let the former Manchester United, Liverpool and Inter Milan man go and appoint midfielder Barry Ferguson in his place for the remainder of the campaign.

In October, Ince was given a five-match stadium ban by the Football Association for a foul mouthed rant at a fourth official, with him winning only 12 out of 42 games during his time in the Bloomfield Road hotseat.

His last match was a 2-0 defeat at bottom club Barnsley, with his assistants Alex Rae and Steve Thompson also leaving the club in the wake of his dismissal.

Blackpool did start the current Championship campaign impressively, winning five of their first six league games which saw them briefly top the league, but they did lose to arch rivals Preston North End in the Capital One Cup at Deepdale in August.

Since the start of December, Ferguson's men have drawn four and lost fourteen of their games, from which sees them only nine points above Yeovil Town in 22nd with tough fixtures against Leicester City, Derby County, Queens Park Rangers, Burnley, Brighton & Hove Albion and Wigan Athletic all to come in the next few weeks.

To add to the Lancashire side's misery, they also lost the services of key player Tom Ince at the end of the January transfer window as he made the loan switch south to team up with Welshman Tony Pulis at Crystal Palace.

With the Seasiders having stopped the rot in midweek however and with a trip to the King Power Stadium on the agenda this weekend, Ferguson's men will head to the Reebok Stadium a week on Tuesday hoping that their luck has changed for the better after a torrid time of late.

MANBEHIND THE MIC

Philip Gittins
Wanderers Player commentator

Not surprisingly, given their free scoring exploits over the last few games, Wanderers' forward line has grabbed the headlines and taken the plaudits as the Whites have hit top form.

Indeed, it has been a privilege to watch the lads playing with a confidence, style and fluidity that saw them dismantle play-off chasing Leeds United at Elland Road seven days ago, comfortably one of the best displays from a Bolton side that I have witnessed in my five years working for the club.

But while, justifiably, much has been written and said about the way in which we have flourished going forward, with the introductions of Lukas Jutkiewicz and Joe Mason proving inspired acquisitions, equally as impressive has been the way in which the Whites have really tightened up defensively by keeping three clean sheets in their past four outings.

There is a doggedness and tenacity about Wanderers right now that makes them a very difficult team to encounter. Tuesday night's draw at Derby's iPro Stadium was very much a case in point.

Having lost their last two league outings, make no bones about it, Steve McClaren's promotion chasers were desperate for all three points. From the first whistle they played with a pace and intensity that forced the Whites onto the back foot for long periods.

But while earlier in the season we may have buckled under such pressure, this is a very different Bolton Wanderers right now.

Disciplined all over the field, defending from the front, the Whites restricted their hosts to largely long range efforts as attack after attack floundered with Adam Bogdan largely untroubled.

As pleasing as the five star display against Leeds may have been, in a completely contrasting way our midweek display in the East Midlands provided just as much satisfaction. All successful sides throughout history not only have the ability to find the back of the net but they also are well versed in the art of keeping it out.

A quality we will need to demonstrate once again this afternoon if we are to record a third consecutive home win against a Brighton side who for me, on the evidence of our last three encounters with them, have few peers in this division when they are at their best.

On current form though the Whites know they are more than a match for anybody and it promises to be an exciting 90 minutes ahead between two in-form teams.

Enjoy the game!
